

Mr. Rockefeller at 93
A Little Politics
The Forgotten New York
Beware the Active Ray
By Arthur Brisbane

MANY HAPPY RETURNS
and many more birthdays to John D. Rockefeller, who is 93 years old today. The prediction that he will live to be a hundred years old, and will probably live beyond 100, for he has made a science of wise living.

The world wishes him as many years as he chooses. He used the energy of his youth accumulating hundreds of millions and, with the assistance of his son, has given away hundreds of millions to education, science and a ceaseless fight against disease.

More important than this,
John D. Rockefeller has demonstrated the importance of organization in industry, as appeared to wasteful competition.
History will remember him graciously for that 50,000 years hence.

Governor Smith has said that he will support "the Democratic party," without mentioning candidates and Governor Roosevelt
"not looking too close," accepts with gratitude Governor Smith's qualified assistance.

Yesterday, Mr. McAdoo was talking "mysteriously" with Senator Hiram Johnson, and some Democrats hope that the senator will support Roosevelt.

Borah and Johnson have said they should not support Hoover, but both might hesitate about walking out of the party to support strange idols.

New York, where this is writing, is a city of great towers, bridges and tunnels, great fortu-nates and energy. All the world knows about THAT City of New York.

There is a "Forgotten New York," corresponding to Governor Roosevelt's "Forgotten Mass," not so well known. You see part of it walking along South St., north of the Brooklyn bridge, at the edge of the East River, where the big ships come in, and their cargo is being loaded and unloaded.

You pass the James Still Concrete Mission, with enormous signs that tell you "Prepare your heart for God," "Where will you spend eternity?" "Be sure you will find you are here."
The place is closed now, but there will be a meeting for seamen at seven this evening. The seamen are real seamen along there, except bootleggers, and they are not too busy.

You see men lying in the bottom of the sidewalks. One is in a drunken sleep, his open hands covered with callouses, proving hard work, his nails broken. He has given up his work for a job for the day.
The next man, also asleep on the street, has the red handle of a toothbrush sticking out of his hip pocket. There is more hope for him perhaps.

Beyond, five or six men using one coat of a large overcoat.
They are playing cards, while more look on. They are gambling, and they are very busy. The spectators. All are poor, but poverty does not prevent gambling.

Mattern and Griffin Land in Darkness After Mistaking a City's Lights for Moscow

Moscow, July 8 (AP)—The ambition of James Mattern and Bennett Griffin to set a new speed record for flight around the world was wrecked in a peep box halfway between Berlin and Moscow, it was learned today.

Their plane was wrecked and the lights of Moscow were seen by train. Neither was badly hurt.
MISTAKE LIGHTS
About 4:00 a. m. yesterday they passed over Berlin, 50 miles from Moscow, Russia. They were having trouble with jams of the control and they mistook the lights of Berlin for Moscow. The peep box was the best available field, but it was not good enough. First word of their accident came from Berlin last night and approached the admiral's house.

FAIL TO RECOVER TRY
It was evident that they would not continue the flight, for with the plane wrecked and the flight abandoned, the possibility of an attempt to set a new speed record for flight around the world was wrecked out.

The news that they had been killed in the crash was given by a man who said he had seen the plane crash. The man said he had seen the plane crash and that the two men had been killed.

Mr. Hoover Obstructs Progress and Prosperity

THE emasculating of the Garner-Wagner relief bill in the conference committee, which exhibited undue cowardice when confronted by the threat of a presidential veto, justifies the fear that Congress may give lip service to the conception of effective unemployment relief.

An administration which has squandered thousands of millions of dollars in questionable loans of public funds to a "select clientele" of selfishly and dubiously managed banks and railroads becomes especially alarmed when it is proposed to widen the circle of beneficiaries of public generosity.

The sacrifice in the conference of the all too inadequate authorization for job creating public works in the Garner-Wagner bill is a costly blunder, measured in terms not only of human suffering, but of national depression in the months that lie ahead.

IT means that the national legislature, to which not only the 10,000,000 unemployed but the whole nation looked for constructive aid, is to be asked to follow the gospel of hesitation and nega-tion, indifference and incompetence, which President Hoover in 1932 has substituted at the behest of the bankers for the sound doctrine of accelerating public works for the public benefit in time of subnormal business, which he himself as Secretary of Commerce advocated so fervently in 1923 and in subsequent years.

It is to be hoped that Congress, sensitive to the needs and desires of the people, will promptly restore the provision for an adequate bond issue to finance desirable public construction.

It is sheer hypocrisy to attempt to stifle economically sound employment proposals with the cry that a bond issue could not be sold.

And it is sheer economic stupidity to assert

DEATH NIGHT TRYST OF BOY MILLIONAIRE IS PROBED

Love Pastor Guilty, Kissed by Girl After Verdict

"Moanin' Low" Comes True for Blues Singer; Quiz of "Suicide" Resumed

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 8 (INS)—The investigation into the puzzle death of 20-year-old Zachary Smith Reynolds, recently married to Libby Holman, blues singer, was temporarily halted today to permit burial of the luckless heir to the millions of one Carolina's noted tobacco kings.

So, sing a torch song about Libby sobbing in widow's weeds beside the grave of her kid husband. Sing one of those melancholy tunes about Zachary Smith Reynolds, heir to more tobacco dollars than you could toll off on the pine trees of Carolina.

SING "MOANIN' LOW"

Sing "Moanin' Low" like Libby used to do with her deep husky voice and a throb in her throat. "I feel so lonesome and I feel— and so afraid—I'm worrying about those blues."

The Broadway "Blues" singer today stood sobbing as they lowered the body of her boy-mate, recorded a suicide, into the ground beside his father and mother. Libby had risen from sick bed to say good-bye to the boy who had flown through life and crashed out of it.

Some time after the funeral Libby must go all over the tragedy. She has not yet told exactly how it happened. Authorities say she was within a few feet, perhaps on the sleeping porch, when young Reynolds is supposed to have shot himself through the temple.

At the simple services conducted by the family pastor of "Reverend" estate, Libby listened with tears streaming down her face. She reached for her mother's hand and sobbed.

She sat with other members of the family. A. B. Webb, close friend of Reynolds and first to reach him after the shooting, was one of the pallbearers.

CROWDS VISIT ESTATE

The Reynolds estate, which has been closely guarded for the past two days, was thrown open today and many curious poured in to join with relatives and friends in the simple rites.

Another large crowd was at the cemetery several miles away. Meanwhile, authorities continued to investigate the circumstances surrounding the shooting in the hope of finding a motive which may have led the young man to take his life.

No matter what might have happened that night, friends of young Reynolds were unanimous that Libby and Smith were fond of each other.

"Moanin' low—my sweet man—I love him now—"

The services were conducted by the Rev. D. Clay Reynolds, first minister. They were held in the massive Reynolds mansion where the bereaved past proceeded the tragedy only a few nights before.

There were no hymns. There were three eulogies read on the organ.

The following facts, which may or may not bear on the case, were continued on Page 7, Column 1.

YES, OHN, BUT WHEN?

By QUINN R. REYNOLDS

New York, July 8 (INS)—John D. Rockefeller celebrated his 84th birthday anniversary today and, as usual, he issued a cheery statement endorsing the nation, liberty, fresh air, free wheeling and Rockefeller oil. He also added that he felt sure that prosperity was on its way back. The question is whether or not we will all be here to greet it.

As a nurse toward himself, John D. omitted his customary birthday party. Perhaps he thinks he's getting too old for such nonsense. The elimination of the birthday party will at least prevent the Rockefeller family from coming out of the Rockefeller home and saying only, "A good time was had by all."

John D. hasn't given out many dimes lately which is just another sign of the times. He used to give out a dime to people with such whimsical jests as "A dime in time never runs," which would be all right for a cat with his nine lives but not so appropriate for a man when nearly everyone is leading a dog's life.

BEAUTIES IN TRAGEDY OF MILLIONS

LIBBY HOLMAN REYNOLDS

Blanche Yurka, famous actress, was occupying a guest room at far end of corridor when the mysterious bullet snuffed life of Smith Reynolds, $20,000,000 tobacco heir. His wife, Libby Holman, stage star, who was with him at the time, is under the care of physicians from shock. Officials in Winston-Salem, N. C., who first pronounced the death a "suicide," have not yet closed the case.

PERUVIAN REDS LOWELL SOLOM PILLAGED CITY

Lima, Peru, July 8 (AP)—The important commercial city of Trujillo was seized by Peruvian rebels today after a long and bloody battle with loyalist troops, and the congress declared a state of siege as the government sent reinforcements. A number were killed. The first outbreak occurred yesterday, when 400 civilians attacked the small force of artillery and police units. Today the revolting groups joined the city, looting and burning followed.

Boston Man Held in Bank Robbery

Red Lodge, Mont., July 8 (AP)—J. C. Lewis, 24, of Boston, and Alvin Walker, 30, of Bridgeport, Mont., were held here today for district court action in connection with the robbery of the American National Bank of Bridgeport of $1000 in currency yesterday.

JANET READE

Young Smith Reynolds was preparing for midnight tryst before his death, police have learned. They are anxious to find if tryst had any connection with party he gave for Janet Reade and other guests of his wife.

Insane Fugitive Carries Bogus Checks

Hartford, Ct., July 8 (INS)—Police were asked today to redouble their efforts to catch Ray E. Bassett, 40, fugitive insane convict, when reporting cashed County Detective Edward J. Hickey that the man is carrying more than $500 in bogus checks in his pockets. Bassett, it was said, had 200 of the checks printed here Wednesday bearing the name of the Royal Bank of Canada.

NEW ORLEANS PARTY UP TO BORAH

Newark, Ct., July 8 (INS)—A new third party fusion ticket, to attract farm and prohibition elements, with Senator William E. Borah for President and Col. Frank E. Webb for Vice-President, was urged today by Frank Leavenworth, chairman of the Farmer-Labor party's platform committee. Lawson said he had embodied his proposal in letters to Borah, Webb and former Congressman William D. Upshaw, prohibition party presidential nominee. The latter has already expressed his willingness to withdraw should Borah be prevailed upon to run. The proposed fusion ticket would stand upon a platform with only two planks, one withdrawal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the other calling for removal of tariff and currency control from the hands of international bankers.

Boston Has Enough of 1-Cent Stamps

Boston is well supplied with one-cent stamps, to go with those orphaned two-cent stamps that you have left over. Word that a "four-cent" in one cent was New York was barely averted by running an emergency supply of 3,000,000 by airplane, resulted in a checkup here.

McAdoo's Daughter Injured in Taxi

Washington, July 8—Mrs. Nellie McAdoo Clagett, 32, daughter of the wartime secretary of the Treasury, William Gibbs McAdoo, was slightly injured here when a taxicab in which she was riding stopped suddenly at Union station today to avoid a collision.

CHURCH GIVER RENEGES

Sermon Hits Him, Not Worth $1

Bethel, Wis., July 8 (AP)—If a man goes to church, puts a dollar in the contribution box, and doesn't like the sermon, can he get his money back?

Maybe yes; maybe no.

At any rate E. R. Brannigan, majority leader of the city council, is trying to get his dollar back. After he put it in the contribution box the Rev. J. A. Studebaker began to talk on "Civic Righteousness."

The more Brannigan listened the more firmly he became convinced the minister was directing his remarks at him and his political followers. For several days he pondered the matter.

A little note to the pastor, it said: "I have noticed the pastor, it said: 'After hearing your oration, I decided it would be better for you not to be contaminated by any money coming from me. He said he would like to have his dollar returned.'

"I have," said the minister, "no power to return Mr. Brannigan's dollar. It is now a part of the general church funds."

He notified the trustees and it's up to them.

Newsboy Bitten by Dog

Thomas Connolly, 13, of Evelyn ave., Malden, a newsboy, was bitten on the leg by a dog yesterday.

RECTOR OF CHURCH

The rector of the church, declared the rector, "said he used to take a girl and put down her mouth like a horse and look at her teeth. I almost wondered—well, I won't say what I wondered."

"It is significant that he only pressed his attention on attractive girls. I think he was certainly mad and I believe his intentions were immoral."

Before he left the courtroom he was surrounded by a group of men and women who shook his hand and expressed their sympathy.

The rector was the first out of the courtroom. He left on the run, pausing only long enough to say: "I'm not the least surprised. I expected this from the first."

The chancellor found Davidson guilty of the following charges:

1—Immorally conducting himself with Rose Ellis from September, 1921 to November, 1931.

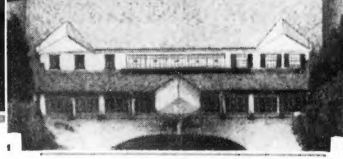

2—Immorally embracing young women in a Chinese restaurant in November, 1931.

3—Guilty in the last five years of habitually associating himself with those characters for immoral purposes, referring to Barbara Harris and others.

Chancellor North said Davidson's evidence regarding his association with Rose Ellis was a "tissue of lies."

"I don't believe him," he added. Davidson contended throughout he had associated with Rose, Barbara Harris and other young girls mentioned for the purpose of lifting them and guiding them.

THE SCENE OF THE TRAGEDY

This air view shows the palatial R. J. Reynolds estate at Winston-Salem, N. C., where Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old tobacco heir, was found fatally wounded by his bride but a few months. Libby Holman, the young millionaire was found dying on the sleeping porch, shown at the front of the house in this picture. Whether his bride was with him at the time is now being probed.

Hugging Rector

James T. Weeks and Lucien Ochokki, lifers who escaped from the state prison camp at Rutland July 3, were captured today in Canada. Vol. according to word received at the Rutland camp today.

Weeks and Ochokki apparently had separated from Robert Ferguson and James Covey, both of Somerville, after they broke for liberty was made.

Ferguson was captured a few days ago in New Haven, Conn. Covey, who was serving five years for robbery, is still at large. Weeks, whose home is in Rutland, was serving a life sentence for the murder of a Wrentham bank cashier.

Ochokki, a former church organist, was serving a life sentence for an Easthampton murder.

Woman to Battle Second Will Rogers

Oklahoma City, July 8 (AP)—Will Rogers, schoolmaster, will know after July 28 how much of his vote for Congressman-at-large in the Senate primary was cast because he bore the name of Oklahoma's famous humorist.

Holding an imposing lead in the race, and his majority, Rogers faces in a runoff election Mrs. Mabel Beardsley, who says she will tell the voters her opponent is not Oklahoma's famous character, but another fellow, a school teacher.

RECTOR OF CHURCH COURT ON RUN AND CHEERS

Also Convicted of Association With Loose Women and Annoying Waitress in London

London, July 8—The Reverend Harold Francis Davidson, rector of St. Shiffry, was found guilty today of all the charges of immoral conduct filed against him in connection with his relations with young London girls.

A formal judgment to this effect was delivered in consistory court by Chancellor E. R. North. The chancellor's findings will be forwarded to the bishop of Norwich, who will decide what action shall be taken against the 60-year-old pastor.

KISSING BY GIRL

"The rector," declared Chancellor North, "said he used to take a girl and put down her mouth like a horse and look at her teeth. I almost wondered—well, I won't say what I wondered."

WATERS APPROACHED

Under the clergy discipline act of 1892, Rev. Davidson faces unbecoming and expulsion from the church.

He will be allowed 15 days in which to clear up his affairs and funds probably will compel him to leave.

The clergyman revealed several weeks ago he was looking for a job on the staffs of the church in London. He was recognized to the end of his church term in November, 1931.

Charles B. Cochran, London news producer, but the offer was turned down.

The report said the aviator who bombed the ship received a reward of $20,000 (about $70,000) for crippling a major vessel.

BOY 'BANDIT' CARRIES GUN

Two boys, one 8 and the other 12, were brought into the Charleston police station today for talking to the Turner Center Creamery plant in Roland, Ark., Charleston.

"What are they holding men?" said Sgt. Thomas Dugan, police officer. "Which one has the gun?"

"I'm surprised and that of a trooper. Ahearn, who brought the boys in, the youngest barely pre-teen, a black cartridge revolver and handed it to the sergeant.

The boys were taken to the arrival of their parents.

CURTIS LEARNS SLAYER STACEY FATE MONDAY COOL AT CHAIR

Framingham, N. J., July 8 (US)—Nervously passing his cell in the Framingham county jail, John Hughes Curtis, who was found guilty of abetting the Lindbergh baby kidnapers, faced the prospect of being sentenced to the Trenton state prison Monday.

The Norfolk shipbuilder faces a possible three-year sentence and a maximum $10,000 fine. It was at first thought he would be released on bail when his counsel appeared for a new trial. The necessary certificates of reasonable doubt had not yet been obtained.

Windsor, Vt., July 8 (INB)—With steady, unhesitating steps, Windsor's cooler and calmest prisoner walked to his death in the electric chair at state prison today.

It was the first execution in Vermont in 22 years. The prisoner was Bert Stacey, 38, convicted of slaying his wife in April, 1931.

As he stood in his cell for the short walk into the small death chamber in which 12 grave-faced men, witnesses and jail officials stood, Stacey greeted Rev. William

BLIND RIVALS FIGHT TO THE DEATH

Chicago, July 8 (AP)—Out of the kingdom of the blind today came a story of love and death.

It was the old story of the eternal triangle. But it was new because it came from the realm of the sightless.

At the Warren ave. police told they played the same profession of Porter, prison chaplain, and sheriff James M. McMahon with a slight smile and said: "I treat in God. He knows I'm innocent."

Then the smile disappeared, the death walk began, and four minutes later Stacey was pronounced dead.

July 8 (AP)—Told in love with the same woman, Richard Roberts, blind in one eye, married a man who is 87 and who can see very dimly from one eye. He is in jail, accused of killing his totally blind friend, Harry Gruber, 35, Roberts denied the accusation.

Gruber died of a fractured skull. Exactly how he died may never be known but this is the story as it was placed together by the police after they talked to Mrs. Roberts.

Two years ago she deserted Roberts for the younger man. Then followed a long period of search by Roberts for the man he blamed for taking his wife.

DEATH SENT HUTTON CASE JUDGE

Los Angeles, July 8 (US)—Superior Judge Lester W. Roth has ordered an increased guard of deputy sheriffs thrown around his courtroom during the trial of Myrtle A. Pierra's $200,000 breach of promise suit against David "Baby Boy" Hutton husband of Alma Emma McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, accused of the discovery in his chambers of a threatening letter addressed to the discovery.

The note, printed roughly in pencil and having suspended from it a thin cord a 25-cent bullet, indicated that Miss Pierra would be murdered if she received a favorable verdict.

"Dear Judge, please see the jury get instructions for a Hutton verdict. If you don't throw the facts of years, that 4-10 schemer gets one of these. You have bloodshed. If you follow instructions."

The note, signed "One for Justice," was found on the window sill of the judge's chambers.

Judge Roth immediately ordered the note taken to Under Sheriff Clara Binnulus for finger printing tests, and in addition to a cordon of deputy sheriffs, members of the courtroom, had a matron from the county jail in the room as a special guard for the trial.

A miniature feud between detectives for Hutton, members of Angelus Temple, and a group of women claiming to be associated with that institution but favorable to Hutton's accuser, broke during the trial.

It grew out of the fact that on two occasions Miss Pierra was given bouquets of flowers by women assembled from the temple.

Orma Lawrence, attempted to enter the courtroom yesterday, July 7, but Hutton's private detective, blocked her path and ordered her outside.

GARNER RELIEF PLANNED BY DEMOCRATS

Washington, July 8 (AP)—Senate Democrats today decided to attempt to get Speaker Garner to modify his demands on the unemployment relief bill which have caused a deadlock with President Hoover.

No decision was reached on whether they would support the conference report pending a conference with Garner, who has insisted upon including a provision for loans to individuals.

Disaffection was expressed by many of those in the conference with Garner's refusal to yield on this point.

SENATE ACTION BLOCKED

Action on the conference report, scheduled for today in the Senate, was postponed until tomorrow to allow the Democrats to decide upon their program.

A subcommittee of three was appointed to meet with Speaker Garner and the House conferees in an attempt to work out a compromise.

Those selected are Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, and Senators Baughman, of Ohio, and Wagner, of New York. All three were members of the special Democratic committee that drew up the bill approved by the Senate.

SEEKING TO ADJOIN

Senator Robinson said plans for adjournment also were discussed at today's conference and a general desire to speed up conclusion of the session was expressed.

Fighting over the Garner-Wagner bill threatens to delay adjournment. It was approved yesterday by a House vote of 292 to 137 and 35 Republicans voted for it.

DAMON RUNYON WEDS DANCER

New York, July 8 (US)—"Well, the guys and dolls were all there, and gave the little girl a great big hand."

So night Damon Runyon, famous sports writer and fictioneer, gave his bride the happy ending to his own romance, which resulted in his marriage to Miss Patrice Amati Del Grande, professionally known as Patrice Gulnan, one of the original matrons who helped to make Texas Guinan Broadway's official hostess.

Leading lights of the press and the sporting fraternity gathered at the New York home of Ed Frazee, sports editor of the New York American, at 8 p. m. yesterday, to witness the wedding ceremony.

Miss Mary Runyon, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. Runyon, was maid of honor, and Mr. Frazee was best man, while Mrs. Frazee was matron of honor.

Originally a Spanish dancer, Miss Grider became a dramatic actress, appearing in minor roles in David Belasco's "Dancing Partner," and in Ethel Barrymore's "Kingdom of God." Her last stage performance was in stock at Mount Vernon, N. Y., last winter.

She was born in Calcutta, Spain, and educated in the famous old convent at Hurta, in Yucatan.

DOG CATCHER IS RAT 'SHERLOCK'

James A. D. MacKay, dog catcher, rat retriever and general all-around animal expert of the Quincy police department, reached into his bag and brought out a rat catcher extraordinary.

He, who is listed as a patrolman, was sent on the trail of the pet white rat of Richard Treco of South Bayfield, Atlantic.

Treco reported he left the rat in his cage, near the race track, or in the Treco home. The rat disappeared.

POLICE BOAT TO BE TESTED

The much-discussed police boat, Stephen O'Shea, ordered by former Police Commissioner Wilson and rejected by Commissioner Hultman, today was placed in the hands of the city law department.

Commissioner Hultman announced, "The law department will be permitted to determine whether the boat was built according to specifications before it is accepted by the police department, Hultman said."

The boat is tied up at Constable's wharf, with one watchman its only employee. Civilian engineers and dockhands have been told not to touch the boat, or to do so only if the tests are conducted.

Green in Second Race for R. I. Governorship

Providence, R. I., July 8 (US)—R. I. Governor Francis Green, prominent lawyer and official of Brown University, was the one watched for the governorship by a slim plurality of two years ago, announced today that his bid was once more in the ring for the Democratic nomination.

Opposed to him at the State convention next November will be John J. Cooney, another prominent lawyer.

Mrs. Parker Named to Welfare Board

Mrs. Agnes C. Parker of 270 Brookline ave. was today appointed a member of the overseers of public welfare by Mayor Curley, to take the place of Anna Murdock, whose term expired. The name of Elsie Power, assistant overseer, was withdrawn. The mayor explained that Mr. Power is so busy in his present position that he could not give sufficient time to the welfare post.

Lash for Bad Boy Upsets Parliament

London, July 8 (AP)—The House of Lords and the House of Commons are scrapping over whether whipping is good for little Willie. The Lords inserted a clause in the children's bill saying policemen should hit naughty boys if the magistrate so ordered. The Commons eliminated it. The Lords put it back. No one knows how long the feud will go on.

TOP PROPOSED FOR ROOSEVELT TO OLYMPICS

Albany, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—Confident that all elements in the Democratic party have rallied to his banner since he was elected for the presidency a week ago, Governor Roosevelt was to leave today on the first leg of a week's vacation.

He will spend tonight and tomorrow night at his country home at Hyde Park, near New York City, and on Sunday for conference, and on early Monday morning, long island on a 46-foot yawl for a cruise around the Sound and through the Cape Cod Canal to Portsmouth, N. H.

There is a strong possibility he may leave the latter part of the month for the Pacific coast to attend the Olympic games. He has been urged by many friends to make the trip.

FARM SPEECH PROPOSED

If he decides to go it is believed he will launch his campaign in the West with a speech on farm relief. Former Gov. Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, the Governor's first manager at the Chicago convention, was an overnight success at the executive mansion and it is understood this was considered.

Fifteen thousand persons gave the Governor a rousing "welcome home" last night. The demonstration was staged by the Albany County Democratic chiefs, "Ed and Sam" O'Connell, who supported former Gov. Alfred E. Smith for the presidency at the national convention.

Cheers for "our next President" greeted the governor as he came out on the mansion porch to address the crowd.

ELECTION PREDICTED

After Mayor John Boyd Thayer predicted the governor would take up his residence in the White House March 4 next, Roosevelt said:

"The ship of Democracy is sailing her anchor, bound on four months' cruise to the Port of Victory."

Referring to what is expected to become the Roosevelt-Garner campaign slogan, "Happy Days," the governor added:

"We believe that is going to be borne out in fact after March 4, 1933."

He was warmly applauded when he referred to former Gov. Smith as "our fine young governor whom we nominated in 1920 at San Francisco." He said the prediction that convention for Smith was the greatest he had ever seen.

TARIFF AGAINST IRELAND VOTED

London, July 8 (AP)—By a vote of 222 to 30 the House of Commons today passed a measure proposed by the government to levy a duty up to 100 per cent on all imports from the Irish Free State.

The bill was approved at the request of J. H. Thompson, secretary for Dominion, who described it as the only means of retaliation for the Free State's refusal to meet its obligations on the Irish land annuities. It was rushed through all parliamentary stages.

WHAT-A-MAN IS BACK WITH 'MA'

Hermosa Beach, Cal., July 8 (AP)—In the seaside cottage where they spent their honeymoon, Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy Hudson and Guy Edward (Whitey) Hudson are living together again.

Mrs. Hudson said there is no thought of divorce now, or even further separation.

A few days ago, Mrs. Hudson, the mother of Almesa Sempie McPherson Hudson, had announced she was through with married life, stating her last matrimonial venture was "like a comic strip—funny and getting tanner."

"We won't be separated any more unless Mr. Hudson should find a job that takes him away from home," said Mrs. Hudson. "I won't let anything stand in the way of a job for him."

KARN WINS FOR 4 HORSEMEN AT BRIDGE

Cleveland, July 8 (AP)—Led by the spectacular playing of Willard Karn, a revised lineup of the "Four Horsemen" from the Deal (N. J.) Bridge Club last night succeeded in defeating their all-American team-of-four championship in the American bridge.

The winning team was composed of Karn, P. Hal Sims, David Burns and Waldemar Von Zedewitz, the latter substituting for Howard Schenken, who was unable to remain for the close of the American Whist League's annual congress.

After taking 8 out of 12 matches in the afternoon, the Horsemen came forward with a victory in the evening round, winning 10½ out of 12 for a final score of 21½.

WIN BOTH TITLES

The previous night, with Schenken in the lineup, the team won the All-American team-of-four championship in contract.

Second place in the auction tournament was won by the Western Reserve Club, composed of E. J. Baker, A. E. Beal, O. S. Smith and S. E. J. Pratt. They scored 12½.

Third place was awarded to Walter J. Pratt of Indianapolis and C. W. Parratt, R. E. Hensberger and K. Rockwell, all of Cleveland, with a score of 12.

Last night's victory was the eighth time in nine seasons of the congress that Karn was seated on the winning side.

Beginning championship bridge play only a little more than a year ago, Karn since has won at least one event in every tournament in which he participated.

Members of the league were still playing today about the supper defense of Karn and Sims in Wednesday's contract battles. The following hand illustrates the play by which they set a two-spade bid by one trick.

WIN BY ONE TRICK

With Sims at North and Karn at South, North led a club and dummy played the queen. Karn topped it with the king, and West used his ace. The six of diamonds then brought out the dummy's king which was taken by Karn's ace. Then took the heart's king, which was followed by his jack of clubs, and then the ten of clubs which Sims trumped with the spade king.

On the tenth trick, Sims led a heart which Karn trumped and followed with a club which Sims won. The hand was then played by the spade king which was overtaken by dummy's queen.

The spade nine was then led from the dummy, and West, by this time bewildered, guessed, and lost the set trick to Sims' 10.

AND DORAK IN FIGHT

Hollywood, July 8 (AP)—For the second time within recent weeks, revolt has struck the ranks of film stars of Warner Brothers-First National Studios.

Ann Dorak, who rose rapidly to stardom, is the latest to break with the studio. James Cagney, red-haired actor and leader of "hard-boiled" roles, quit recently.

The question of salary entered into Miss Dorak's sudden departure yesterday for New York. She said she would sail from New York to Europe with her husband, Leslie Panton.

Miss Dorak was selected from a chorus a year ago by Howard Hughes to play in "Scarface." She was reported to have received a salary of $250 weekly, and when her Brothers-First National, it was said she received no increase in salary, although she had been given stellar roles.

Claim of Socialist Fusion Repudiated

Chicago, July 8 (AP)—The socialist party today repudiated reports of a fusion with the Liberty party formed this week in Kansas City. Clarence Senior, national socialist campaign manager, said: "Presentation of Norman Thomas' name as a candidate for President on the Liberty party ticket was unauthorized. The socialist party was not represented at the Kansas City conference. The reported fusion of the Socialists in the fusion is, therefore, false."

Bay State Boy Wins Honors at Peddie

Hightstown, N. J., July 8 (AP)—Edward L. Pratt, of Great Britain, Mass., has been awarded the gold star, highest award for scholarship at Peddie Institute during past academic year. His master, Roger W. Swetland, announced today.

Pratt received also the Wyckoff honor prize at commencement as the senior, who was admitted to possess in the highest degree ability, character and attainments.

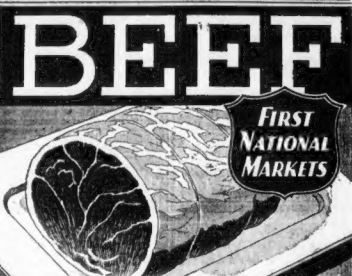

Boston Wife, 'Ridiculed as Irish,' Wins $13,500 Suit

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 8 (AP)—Mrs. Alexandria H. Hankins of Boston was awarded $13,500 damages from J. R. Hankins, her father-in-law, whom she accused of alienating her husband's affection, by a jury in Forsyth County superior court which heard evidence in the case for two weeks.

She had asked $100,000. At a previous trial she was awarded $30,000, but the state Supreme Court granted the defendant a new trial.

Mrs. Hankins, who married James Hankins in 1923 while he was residing in Boston, testified her father-in-law ridiculed her for her Irish background, and finally persuaded her husband to abandon her and her four children.

The elder Hankins charged the suit was a frame-up because his son and Mrs. Hankins to molest him, and testified James and another son had attacked him at times in efforts to make him sign over to them his large stock holdings in the J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

BUTLER BOLTS G. O. P. TO VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT-GARNER

Mal-Gen. Smalley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., retired, ardent dry and republican for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate from Pennsylvania, announces that he will support Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner in the presidential campaign. In the following exclusive interview General Butler gives his reasons for deserting the Republican leadership.

By MAL-GEN. EMMETT D. BUTLER, U. S. M. C. RETIRED
(Copyright, 1932, by N. Y. American and Universal Service, Inc.)

As long as there has been a Republican party, the members of my family have been Republican voters. Shortly after he was mustered out of the Union Army, following service in the Civil War, my grandfather, Samuel Butler, was elected by the Republicans of his district (Chester County, Pennsylvania) to represent them in the State Legislature. Since that time, a Republican Butler has served my native State, without interruption, as an elected official. My great uncle, William Butler, was elected to the bench of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania about that same time, and there has been a Republican Butler on the bench of Pennsylvania from that day to this.

My father, Thomas S. Butler, was sent to Congress by the Republicans of his district for Mal-Gen. Butler 14 consecutive terms, serving for 32 years in the national House of Representatives.

I have voted the Republican ticket regularly since I cast my first vote. I have cast ballots for Roosevelt, Taft, Hughes, Harding and Coolidge and only my absence in China in 1928 prevented me from voting for Hoover. I was a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate from Pennsylvania at the primary election this year.

It's a Question of Men, Not Party, Now
But, in November, I shall vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner, Democrats. I am a dry. I had a dry plank in my platform in my campaign for the Senate.
But, in November, I shall cast my vote for Roosevelt and Garner—Republicans.

To a Butler, and to a Marine, it was not easy to reach a decision to vote for Roosevelt and Garner. I am, however, in a question of party, but a question of platform planks, not a question of principle. It is not a question of re-election or of economic rehabilitation.

It is not a question of political affiliation—it is a question of who is the man to lead our nation's forces to victory in this war, to bring about peace, and to bring about economic rehabilitation. My vote will be cast for Roosevelt and Garner—not because they are Democrats, but because I believe the Democratic standard-bearers and the principles for which they stand will bring about a better world than the Republican standard-bearers and the principles for which they stand will bring about.

Comeback to Come From Forgotten Men

In my platform for the United States Senate I had a dry plank; my opponent was wet. Yet, because I am not a fanatic on the subject, I appealed for wet votes as well as dry votes (and received them) because I felt then, as I now feel, that prohibition is not the vital issue of the day. Economic rehabilitation is the only true issue, and rehabilitation must start, as Franklin Roosevelt has said, at the bottom of the pyramid with the "forgotten man."

Neither hordes well for the dry. It was evident to all experienced observers at the Republican National convention that the delegates there assembled were predominantly for repeal as were the delegates to the Democratic convention. Yet, the Republican delegates were steam-rolled into voting for a re-submission plank. Both platforms now favor re-submission to the people of the dry question. But party platforms do not change constitutions; presidents and vice-presidents do not change constitutions. It will be the members of Congress who will determine whether the people shall vote on the question; and then the people themselves will decide to continue prohibition or not.

Dry Issue Is Only Secondary Now

Wettest drags like all other Americans, must subscribe, for the moment, their family squabbles and personal beliefs on this and other minor issues, because, transcending in importance, is the economic question. The drys must not obscure the big issue. Those industrialists and capitalists seeking to shift the burden of taxation from their own shoulders to that of the working class, have attempted to make the question the chief issue, and the wet press party for the same reason, have aided them in their efforts.

If the vote at the dry in the presidential election is guided by chiefly by this question, then, we have fallen into the trap set by the millionaire wet—they will induce by force.

I have known Franklin Roosevelt

There the more years look a great thing to him, which continued until my father's death a few years ago. Although on opposite sides of the political fence, there was of me serving in Congress for whom my father, a great judge or men of greater regard and affection than John Garner.

My vote, therefore, will be cast for the men I consider best able to lead us in this war against depression. Today, purged of the Smith-Barack-Wall Street influence, the Democratic party is the liberal or progressive party of our nation.

The present leadership of the great Republican party has led it back to Toryism.

40 YEARS before the first auto

Pabst were making the world's finest brew

People saw the first American automobile go chugging down the street in 1893. It's a little hard to think back that far. And yet, in 1844, 49 years before that date, Pabst of Milwaukee were making their world-famous brew.

That's why, today, their Puritan Malt is so good. There are three generations of malting experience behind it... it's age-tested!

MADDEN FEARS FOR LIFE

New York, July 8 (U.S.)—The voluntary exile of Owen ("Owen") Madden, Napoleon of Broadway's racket, behind the gray walls of Sing Sing, may involve more serious consequences than the loss of his freedom.

Even so, the gangland kingpin, who surrendered at the prison for parole violation, doubtless has gray prison bars as No. 66194, a prisoner along the twisted trapdoor of New York's underworld.

Owen's taking the rap for the murder of a man who was killed at the pond where the bathers arrive. The cards contain the name, age and description of the child.

Any infraction of the bathing rules at the pond will result in the revocation of the bathing permit to the guilty party.

Wright's pond, a favorite fresh water bathing spot for thousands of people in suburban Boston, was closed to bathing as a result of complaints by residents of unclean bathing and other objectionable features. Police investigation is reported to have shown that out of town persons were entirely responsible for the rowdyism.

A large number of men from the welfare department have been given employment at the pond to enforce the new regulations.

TAGS NEEDED BY BATHERS

More than a thousand bathing youngsters are entitled to bath in Wright's pond at the pond where the bathers arrive. The cards contain the name, age and description of the child.

JURY ACQUITS 2 IN KIDNAPING

Chicago, July 8—Louis "Two Gun Louie" Allers, former gang power, and Charles "Doodle" Brown, 31, Louis and Kansas City gangsters were acquitted of the kidnaping of Edward Torkin by a jury which had deliberated three hours.

The men were the last of a trio of 18 rounded up by FBI agents chief investigator for the St. Louis attorney, to be tried.

Neil Montague, one of the leaders, escaped jail while awaiting trial, the last of which is left to the initiator's widow.

PUBLIC CUT OUT OF CLARK WILL

Because of the continued and persistent decline in the value of securities, James E. Clark, 77, former Boston leather merchant, of whom Clark, 77, who died July 5 at his summer home, Lake Sunapee, N. H., left no public bequests.

This was revealed when his will was filed in Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge, yesterday. No bond was filed with the will to indicate the size of the estate, the bulk of which is left to the initiator's widow.

Young John and his father, Gebhard John, wealthy manufacturer, granted their first interview last night since the nature of the youth.

"There was no ransom paid," the father declared. It was reported that some part of the $35,000 demanded by the abductors had been turned over to them.

The father was not sure Haskell would be able to identify the kidnappers.

"He saw them, all right, but I don't know that he could make positive identification," he said. Atty. Kinkadee had refused to discuss the ransom angle, but he said Haskell would be taken over the ground where he thinks he was held captive.

Young John was kidnapped a week ago from his father's garage Wednesday night. He was released and later walked into a farm house at Golden Valley, village on the western outskirts of Minneapolis. There he communicated with authorities and officers rushed him to Minneapolis.

INCORPORATED

Imagine a corporation whose business it is to tell loveliness . . . beauty . . . not the kind that comes in jars and tubes and compacts (which is well enough as far as it goes), but the real thing, the genuine article.

Well . . . in a certain sense . . . we are something like that.

It's this way. Suppose you were to let electricity do as much of your housework as it can do . . . your washing, your ironing, your cleaning. Wouldn't you get more rest; wouldn't you have more recreation; wouldn't you enjoy more outdoor, fresh-air pleasures; wouldn't you have more real loveliness?

With an ALL ELECTRIC home, you just bet you would. All right then, why not have an ALL ELECTRIC home, why not let electricity do these things for you? Begin this week, tomorrow, today if you can . . . Visit your nearest Edison Shop and see the exceptional values we are offering in time-saving, rest-giving appliances . . . Let electricity begin at once to help you add to your loveliness.

WHAT IS AN ALL ELECTRIC HOME?

An ALL ELECTRIC home is one that is adequately wired, and equipped with electric range, water heater, refrigerator, washer, ironer, vacuum cleaner, and such small appliances as the electric toaster, percolator, waffle iron, sandwich toaster, egg cooker, curling iron, hand iron, and heating pad. One by one, you can acquire these appliances. Why not start today to make your home a modern ALL ELECTRIC home?

KNOW YOUR ELECTRICAL CONTRACTOR AND DEALER

Your own local electrical dealer is "electrical headquarters" for your neighborhood. He carries a complete stock of standard electrical merchandise and offers you a good variety at standard prices. If he does nothing, his work will be thorough and modern, done by skilled, licensed electricians.

YOUR DEPARTMENT STORE SELLS ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES

Many department stores in the area served by The Boston Edison Company have a modern "Electric Department." This department is for your convenience—that you may purchase reliable, nationally-advertised electrical merchandise where you regularly shop for clothing or household essentials. Go to the "Electric Department" the next time you are shopping there, and see for yourself how admirably it is equipped to supply your electrical needs at fair prices—and, usually, on convenient terms.

ALLEN'S HANDS STIR UP TEMPEST IN TEAPOT WITH ART BOARD

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

FORMER GOVERNOR ALLEN seems to think that since he is primarily a business man he should be painted as one. He highly approves the official portrait which represents him with his hands in his pockets.

The inference seems to be that if he were to be painted as a politician, it is not his own pockets he would be having his hands in.

The State Art Commission seems to dislike the pockets, just as it disliked Governor Walsh's thumb and the color of his necktie in his official portrait. The State Art Commission, as I understand it, is an essentially conservative body. Certainly a number of the names on it are to be recognized as old timers, watchdogs of the Boston Art Club, who can be trusted to die in the last ditch before letting anything modern into Boston.

PROF. ROGERS If Governor Allen's official portrait had purple hair and a green face, it if represented him nude on horseback against an Arizona landscape, one might understand why the Commission objected. But so far as one can tell from newspaper reproduction, the portrait is a perfect example of the kind of art that Boston admires. Even in newspaper reproduction it can hardly be told from a photograph.

What Would Old Masters Say?

My suggestion is that the artist, whoever he is, paint in a red curtain in the background, half drawn and revealing a pleasant prospect of the town of Newwood, paint in a table on which is either a big book or a rolled scroll, with which the Governor's left hand can be toyed, while his right hand is thrust into the bosom of his unbuttoned waistcoat. Then the Art Commission need have no fear that it is sanctioning anything remotely resembling modernism. As it is, once this opening wedge of irreverence is driven in, the next official portrait might be done in cubes, for all we know, or triangles, or just verticals.

I wonder what the old boys would say—or perhaps are saying from their stations in Elysium—about this tempest in a teapot. There was Albrecht Durer, for instance, who liked to represent his burghers occupied with their daily doings, counting money or foreclosing mortgages. Rembrandt even painted a portrait group dissecting a cadaver. Franz Hals and Rubens liked portraits wherein their subjects were trying on gloves or holding a glass of Rhenish or just laughing fit to split. Such grave and formal concepts of even private life as John Singleton Copley foisted upon Boston taste and they formed a tradition did not seem necessary to the old boys of the Renaissance.

About the time of the establishing of the first French Republic and the American Republic there was a notion among the artists that great statesmen ought to be painted or sculpted in the Graeco-Roman manner, with mixing-bowl haircuts, nude and classic torsos and yards of linen drape. Somewhere there is a statue of Washington naked to the waist, looking as nearly like the Olympian Zeus as the lack of whiskers will permit. The Germans cherish a statue of Beethoven, also naked to the waist, sitting brooding over the Ninth Symphony.

What Did Winthrop Hold?

Bernard Shaw even had himself photographed in the altogether, in the posture of Rodin's "The Thinker," that statue which would make such an excellent advertisement for a manufacturer of laxatives.

And on the State House lawn—or is it in front of City Hall?—there is a statue of one of the elder worthies of Massachusetts to sit and look and scroll all-comprehending. For the life of me, I cannot at this minute identify it. Is it one of the Quinseys? Or is it Horace Mann? Or who in the name of funery art, is it?

I think that Governor Allen is to be congratulated for having been painted with his hands in his pockets. It is about the only posture which goes with a business suit. We are not a gesticulating people. The dexterous and facile gestures of the Mediterranean or Latin peoples are not for us. If we were to indulge in our intentions might be mistaken. Businesslike postures for businesslike people! It is a good old tradition. Out in the foyer of the office building of the Mount Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge, there is a heroic statue of John Winthrop, first governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. He sits at his ease, his hands on his knees, his palms cupped together, and as you look you can almost hear the jingling of coins or even the rattling of dice.

One reproach to all the members of the Art Commission will not have to face. The official portrait is not by a "furriner." The Amalgamated Association of Patriotic American Portraits and Advertising Artists—or whatever the organization calls itself—will have no ground to protest. Nor can the National Federation of Women's Clubs, always so keenly interested in matters which concern them little, lend their support to a chauvinist movement which is in itself commercial and not artistic.

Might Make the Ordinary Great

That being so, the only real excuse for our Art Commission getting up on its feet to paint a portrait is painted that by a Massachusetts man but by a New Yorker. But perhaps they do these things better in Manhattan . . . getting commissions, I mean.

If the Massachusetts Art Commission is to be really effective, it will have to be something more than higgledy and giggledy over details in a finished portrait. I surmise that it has nothing to do with choosing the artist for what is to be an official and historical memorial. About that point I am not informed. If the Commission did choose the artist, it should be taken for granted that he is a competent person, who knows his job. In that case the Commission should stand by him.

If the Commission does not choose the artist, perhaps it is time it did. If the members saw to it that official portraits, to be hung in the State House, were painted by only our admittedly distinguished painters, then again there should be no need of this tuppenny, ha-penny, worrying about details. Artists of the first rank ask high prices, but even an artist of the first rank, if he has any sense of the permanent value of art, might be willing to take a reasonable fee for a portrait which would enjoy something not unlike immortality. And think of the opportunity to make a somewhat ordinary man look quite as if he were a great man!

I suggest that the Massachusetts State Art Commission hold a private meeting for prayer and counsel in that room at the Museum of Fine Arts which houses the portraits of the late 18th and early 19th centuries. Perhaps they would realize then that there is something more to a portrait than thumbs and neckties even hands in pockets.

PEABODY COACH DENIED $3000 SCHOOL JOB

Friends Demand Murphy, Long a Resident of City, Be Given Attendance Officer Position

A small-sized tempest stirred up in Peabody city politics today by the action of the school board in confirming Charles A. Leach as school attendance officer with a salary of $3000.

Leach, although he has been temporarily acting as attendance officer some months, is comparatively unknown in the city, and "Jimmy" Murphy, extremely popular with school boys, was expected to be appointed.

ACTION IN SURPRISE
The action of the board last night came as a surprise to the friends of Murphy, who has been a sub-teacher, playground instructor and official at baseball, basketball and football games for years.

It was conceded he would get the job with hardly any opposition, despite the fact that Leach was temporarily appointed four months ago.

At that time the board, in a communication to the Civil Service Commission, which has a supervisory position posted out that Leach was not to be given credit for experience while acting temporarily.

Leach was a resident at Peabody some years ago, but left the city, according to Mr. Sumner. He is a resident of Boston.

Friends of Murphy were today questioning to demand that the school board rescind its vote, and appoint their candidate. They should political jobbery, due to the recent absence from the city of the Democratic convention of Mayor F. Leo Sullivan.

3 Murders, Suicide and Major Operation on Noah Ark Ship

With a story of three "murders," one suicide and a serious operation on the high seas, the steamer Japanese Prince docked at Howe's Tunnel docks, Charlestown, today.

The "murder" victims were offsprings of a rare tree snake, part of a collection that made the ship a "murder" vessel.

A member of the monkey family committed suicide and the operation was performed upon a 20-foot python.

The animal collection is the property of J. Ross Freeman of Boston. G. M. manager of a rubber plantations at Sumatra, returning home after four years.

The collection includes six tigers, a baby leopard, a 27-foot python, two 20-foot, a 34-foot cobra, a rare wild dog, a honey bear, more than 50 rare birds and ten monkeys.

The leopard was tamest of the lot. It slept in Freeman's stateroom one night of the tour.

There were eleven monkeys, and one escaped from his cage when a tiger was released.

A tiger of 200 lbs. was released from the cage of a 20-foot python, causing damage to property was damaged.

Is She Dumb to Decline Kisses?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My brother had been talking about me so much to his crowd that the girls decided to make a party and invite me. Just to see what I was like. While at the party the boys wanted to pet and kiss me. I didn't let them, for that isn't my idea of a good time. My brother gave me a dirty look. After that we went to sing and dance, which is more my idea of a good time, while some of the girls and boys were kissing. Since then I have not been invited by his crowd to any more of their parties. He doesn't seem to care. They're good enough, and I like them, but I would like to be one of them, but don't want to chance my idea of a good time to suit their.

RASHID.

Dear Rashid: There are plenty of young people who, like yourself, do not think immediate and promiscuous petting is necessary to a good time. One such girl wrote me this morning and said, "I'm both getting my share of Jimmie the moment you start out prove you're even too dumb to talk."

Wants to Go Without a Coat
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have had a quarrel with the man I have been going with. I mean a mere trifling. Yet to my idea it means a lot. He thinks it is proper to take me out and not wear a coat, and I contend it is very ungentlemanly and refuse to go with him. This has led to our parting.

I care very much for this young man, and I am sure he cares for me. W. W.

Dear T. W.: Your letter is postmarked from a city almost in the tropics, and after making some inquiries I hear that young men in that locality do sometimes go out with their girlfriends in formal attire. But when the boy friend knows you object to this, and linen, pongee and seersucker suits are all that count, then, I am sure, I don't see why he objects to wearing one.

Paste This in Your Hats, Shy Young

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: For a long time now I have been going with a young man. I am a shy girl, but now I am not. I am a shy girl, but now I am not. I am a shy girl, but now I am not.

DEAR ADDIE: Here's a girl who is looking for something in the same line. The gentle and compliant young man who does whatever she suggests, but who never ever suggests, but who never ever suggests, but who never ever suggests.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a young married woman, and during a period of my life, standing with my husband I imagined myself in love with a young man of my acquaintance who professed to love me. I very foolishly wrote him a number of letters, and while I hardly believe he would ever answer them, I am sure he would not harm me. I now realize the enormity of the thing I have done, and would feel very much relieved if I had them back in my possession, or knew they were out of existence. Do you believe it is wise to ask for their return?

YOUNG WIFE

Dear Young Wife: If the man as a gentleman you have no cause for worry, at no one but an unspoken could would ever show them or use them. Why not write him and ask for their return, if he has them. Surely he will be glad to get your mind at rest.

Hints From the Beauty Box

FOR THE girl who is too busy and the one who would like to be normal, beauty, swimming is the perfect, ideal exercise. It is deep; the motion of the arm vitalizes the muscles and fibers of the chest. The swimmer can help matters along by massaging gently every night with some oil or lanoline and bathing every morning with ice cold water.

GLORY LOCKS have been glorified by the women of the summer. So it goes. Now, however, shoulder length, short again. Good fun, something to talk about while the girls discuss the beauty bazaar.

WHEN MASSAGING the scalp

give some firm, vigorous massage to the back of the neck. If the arteries are there and they send their vitalizing growth to the hair, their growth, which lives on the blood supply. During the treatment, the fingers now and then an ice cube. Cold fingers do better work than warm ones.

'A GENTLEMAN OF LEISURE'

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN!" A little boy I know, and the little boy HE knows, and the little boy with the brown curls and the pink dress that he admires, and the little girl that she knows, and all the other little boys and girls like them, affluent and otherwise, are persons of leisure again.

Happy days—we say! Bare toes on warm days. Days as long as months. Hours and hours to read "Animal House" and all the blue delivery trucks. Hours to commune with the sky and the mysteries of its unending blue. No one to say, "Put away that 'imagination' I shall take it away." No marching. No inspection of ears and finger-nails—except by mother. And that's enough Bureau of Investigation to go through. Freedom from shoe-polish except on Sunday. Freedom from too frequent and overbearing cleaning-up. The dear old yard to level in. Their farm and things thereon to enclose one's school-spirit. Perhaps the rat mountains to view with Dad and Mother. Or the sea with his lace and blue-knit to paddle in at the Granders. Perhaps just home-sweet-home plenty of time! Oh, delights of being out of school with a certificate—and pleased parents! There comes a day when we can never get out of school rest. School keeps for us every day, but a few weeks in summer of a brief vacation. And EVERY DAY for some. There is no teachers but freedom to keep up in, and our adult sense of duty. But stay we do. Because childhood and ABSOLUTE freedom are past. The best we can do is to revel in the child we have and those of our neighbors, and try to enjoy the world in brief snatches, with the same deep wholeness that the child does.—NELL BRINKLEY.

Chicken With Noodles

Delicious Fricassee for Company

By MARTHA LEE

From Martha Lee's Friday Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB

WELL, I'VE DONE IT AGAIN! Served what's getting to be almost a standardized dinner. And since more the folks claim that it's a perfect combination.

It is such an easy dinner—speaking in comparative, and not to exaggerate.

An egg and tomato here, a tomato and egg there.

And now a shiny new little star for my culinary crown.

For four people, I had cooked a egg, putting them in cold water, letting them come to a boil, then simmering just under the boiling point for one-half hour.

I removed the shells and while the eggs were still warm, put them through the potato ricer (or food chopper). To them I added 1/2 cup of salt, 1/4 cup of paprika, a generous sprinkling of onion salt and celery salt, and a dash of white pepper.

IN TALL TUMBLER

I pressed this mixture tightly into a tall, narrow tumbler and set it aside in a cold place 4 or 5 hours. Then I took it out of the glass and cut it into half-inch slices and placed one slice on a plate.

Then I poured the vegetable down to the runny stage with a little sauce. It certainly "went big" as my boys say.

The main course was a chicken fricassee, with a cream gravy served on the bed of fried noodles, which I have described many times. If you've missed me, I'll be glad to see you.

Buttered Asparagus, new potatoes, turned over in butter and melted parmesan, or chopped nuts. For me I had a vegetable course, and if the company had been the least bit of a fussy, I added grapefruit sections, chilled in glass gelatin, but as these were just fresh, I substituted an attractive plate of radishes, carrots, marinated slices of cucumber, olive, cole slaw and pickles.

FOR DESSERT

For dessert I had a straw-berry concoction that's still as good as new.

I dissolved 1 1/2 lbs. of gelatin in 3 1/2 cups of boiling water. To this I added 4 cups of cold water and 1 cup of sugar. I substituted 1/2 cup of lemon juice for the sugar. I did not stir against the gelatin, but poured it into the juice of a lemon. I crushed the strawberries that I crushed with the potato masher.

Be Careful of Baby's First Teeth

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

WHEN mother is greatly concerned about her baby. Many mothers are unduly alarmed because of delayed teething, while others endure much anxiety because of early teething.

Every child has a right to a normal, healthy teething, yet many an infant in later life comes from weak and neglected teeth in childhood.

During the first half year the baby is provided with a necessary food element required to form strong and healthy teeth.

When the mother's milk is insufficient, it is necessary to resort to bottle feeding, adequate measures should be taken to insure a sufficient supply of lime and the important vitamins in the baby's food.

Within recent years there has been a great advance in the artificial feeding of infants. Mothers have been taught the value of lime and cod-liver oil, as well as the importance of stimulating the growth of the teeth during infancy and childhood.

Contrary to a common and false belief, the temporary teeth require the same care and attention as the permanent teeth. Hard and dry foods should be included in the baby's diet after the first year.

Dry toast, dry bread, crackers and other foods which require chewing, aid in the development of healthy teeth and strong jaw.

The temporary teeth should be cleaned every evening before bedtime with a soft camel's hair brush dipped in water or salt water.

Every child ought to be taken to a dentist at least once a year. If cavities and other dental decay appear early about teething.

Diseases such as arthritis, rheumatism and heart, kidney and lung diseases have been traced to diseased teeth. Most cases of these diseases could have been prevented by proper care of the teeth during infancy and childhood.

"I could write volumes on what my Vegetable Compound has done for me after being in poor health for nine years. After my daughter was born I was a physical wreck. Three bottles of the Vegetable Compound restored me to health. Father's Place at Church Wedding

By MRS. BECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

When the father gives the bride away, does he step back and sit down with the mother, or does he go with the bride and groom while they sign the register?

After the bride's father has performed his part in the ceremony, he should sit down with the bride's mother. In the first place, he is the father of the bride, which the procession has come.

Wedding Reception

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

The pastor of our church is to be married soon in the church at 4 o'clock wedding. As a member of the Ladies' Society of the church, I would like to know, what, if anything, would be in the line of duty for us to do on the day of the wedding. We expect to hold a reception for them when they return from their wedding trip. This will be held in the church vestry. Any suggestions you may give will be most gratefully received.

Since your society has such a charming plan for a reception to the couple when they return, I would advise a plan for any social gathering on the day of the wedding. However, there might be some complaint that the wedding party would be in the way of service on the day of the wedding. This will be held in the church vestry. Any suggestions you may give will be most gratefully received.

LETTERS By LE

As a body remotely interested in government the convention was a triumph of equivocation whose frankness and honesty were expediently impressive and, ironically enough, may prove strategically disastrous.

As an American phenomenon demonstrating how little we desire the best, how closely we cleave to the mediocre it was perfect. And as news it was swell. The reporting was magnificent. Will Rogers, Hugo Black, Westbrook Pegler, Brown, Lippmann, and the rest observed with the kindly attitudes of attendants in an insane asylum.

The stories were exact, unvarnished and, as far as any effect on improving effect on a policy or how the country might be better run, irrelevant.

they know what senator gave what party with what hi-jacked gin to offset the air of embarrassment when a President is around; they know what bargain was made with whom, and which presidential candidate has definitely and to date promised 23 cabinet appointments. But the new news from day to day is a drug a sufficient narcotic to keep them going with no thought of a record for posterity, a record which would be more valuable to our children than Pepsy and more desperately honest than any American history now published.
